Rick Larsen Understands A Healthy Environment Is Vital To Our Economy and Our Way of Life

It's not easy these days to get things done in Congress. But Rick Larsen didn't let the frustrations of Washington, D.C., prevent him from working with both sides to build bipartisan support for a number of efforts to protect our environment, including:

- Extended the Land and Water Conservation Fund, which has helped preserve open spaces like Ebey's Reserve, Chuckanut Bay and the Wild Sky Wilderness
- Protected Illabot Creek, the San Juan Islands National Monument and the Wild Sky Wilderness for future generations
- Led efforts to secure funding for the Pacific Coastal Salmon Recovery, which assists restoration and recovery projects

Rick understands the important role nature plays in our lives and economy. He's working every day to preserve our unique quality of life for generations to come.
